BE PART OF HISTORY

KANGAROOS are endemic to Australia and our nation's military, early in its history, recognised the powerful symbolism the famous marsupial evoked.

Australian Imperial Force units had kangaroos as regimental mascots and their image was commonly used on postcards sent to and from the various theatres of war, such as those reproduced on the front and back covers of this keepsake booklet.

Naturally, a recruitment march formed in Wagga Wagga needed a strong identity so the name Kangaroos was adopted for the marchers.

Gallant men with a sense of adventure from Cootamundra, Harden, Harefield, Humula, Marrar, Oura, The Rock, Tumbarumba, Wagga Wagga and elsewhere were amongst the 88 originals who set off on 1 December 1915 amidst much fanfare and patriotism.

Across the Riverina, families were proud to have a representative do their duty ... yet worried about their brave sons marching off to war.

Re-enacting that epic march a century ago has taken remarkable initiative and drive by a dedicated group of Southern Highlanders and credit to them, particularly effervescent committee president Graham Brown, indefatigable vice-president Rhondda Vanzella OAM and the clever and creative O J Rushton,

VC WINNER A BRAVE ROO

JOHN RYAN (pictured) was the most famous of the Wagga Wagga Kangaroos, earning a Victoria Cross not long before World War I ended in 1918.

It is so pleasing he is at long last to be appropriately acknowledged with a life-sized bronze statue in the town of his birth, Tumut.

Kangaroo recruits were awarded two Distinguished Conduct Medals and seven Military Medals, including my great-great-uncle Leslie William Curran (see picture centre pages) of Coolamon. They dared mightily.

who is responsible for march music and education.

Over coming weeks all the hard work, planning and preparation will be realised as the 2015 version takes place along the route from Wagga Wagga to Campbelltown.

Our region owes a debt of gratitude to those 1915 Kangaroos who went to fight for what was right ... "by courage and faith" according to the official banner.

So "hop in" and be sure to join the 2015 celebrations and colour of this very special event starting at the Historic Council Chambers on the morning of Saturday 5 September or along the way at the various stop-offs.

HITTING THE RIGHT NOTES

THE RSL Rural Commemorative Youth Choir was inspired by the Kangaroo March Re-Enactment to engage young Australians with the spirit of ANZAC and to mark the First World War centenary commemorations of 2014-2018.

The choir, made up of primary and secondary students in local communities (Mobs), represents the face of ANZAC Days to come, involving young people through history, leadership and music, to encourage them to learn from the past, live in the present and look to the future.

Over the next few years, the choir will focus on commemorating World War I through music, poetry and storytelling to remember the fallen and honour local heroes.

Its theme song, "Young and Free" is available on the kangaroomarch.org.au website and is also on iTunes with proceeds going to support the growth of the choir.

YOUNG VOICES: Combined choirs at the Australian War Memorial.

RSL CLUB HONOURS KANGAROO HEROES

THE names of the 88 original Wagga Wagga Kangaroos have long been chiselled in marble in the Victory Memorial Gardens and are now cut into steel in a fitting tribute at the RSL Club.

To honour these daring local heroes, the RSL Club commissioned a special new memorial to stand alongside its granite monument at the entrance.

Opened at a poignant twilight service on 23 April this year, the Kangaroo March centenary memorial, a $100,000 project, features three rusted steel blades standing on a sandstone base.

Each blade represents the three armed forces in proportionate size, supporting each other.

The blades, rusted to depict the passing of time, rise from a sandstone surface which represents hardships endured.

In recognition of the 88 men who began the Kangaroo March from Wagga Wagga, each of their names accompanies a map of their journey on one of the blades which are then brilliantly backlit each evening.

The official ANZAC Centenary logo and the numeral 100 appear on the other two blades.

A moving speech was given at the opening ceremony by retiring Wagga Wagga RSL Club president John Keyes whose great-uncle Sidney Keyes was a Kangaroo.

John Keyes choked back tears as he told of a mere boy, officially listed as 18 years old, who headed off on the march and never returned.

Wounded in action three times, Sid – a private in the 13th Battalion – finally fell on the Western Front on 1 March 1918 ... a spirited young man who answered his country's call in its time of need and who paid the supreme sacrifice.

He was laid to rest in the Spoilbank Cemetery, Ypres, Flanders, in Belgium.

fame,
Playing your part in the hero’s game ;
Here’s a prayer in brief expressed
From one who with loving heart doth

“God be with you, and a safe

To the one that loves you best.”
